University Hall, Uppsala

eurocon2023.se

Welcome to Konflikt – The Eurocon and Swecon of 2023!

Staff: Gophers (volunteers) wear a navy blue badge with the text GOPHER together with their ordinary badge. Committee members wear red badges and a red sash.

Hashtags: #Eurocon2023 and #Konflikt2023, feel free to tag us on Instagram, Facebook, Twitter or TikTok!

Internet: There is free wi-fi at UU-Guest. You have to register once every 24 h.

Program changes: Changes in the program will be announced at the info board at the Registration desk and on the web <https://eurocon2023.se/>.

Author Signings: A signing schedule will be available on the Registration info board, on the webpage and in the digital programming on <https://guide.eurocon2023.se/> during the convention. All signings will be held in the Dealers' Hall.

Opening hours

	The convention	Dealers' Hall	Café Alma
Thursday:	15:00 – 21:00		10:00 – 19:00 (approx.)
Friday:	09:30 – 21:00	10:00 – 18:00	10:00 – 20:00
Saturday:	09:30 – 21:00	10:00 – 18:00	10:00 – 20:00
Sunday:	09:30 – 17:00	10:00 – 16:00	10:00 – 14:00

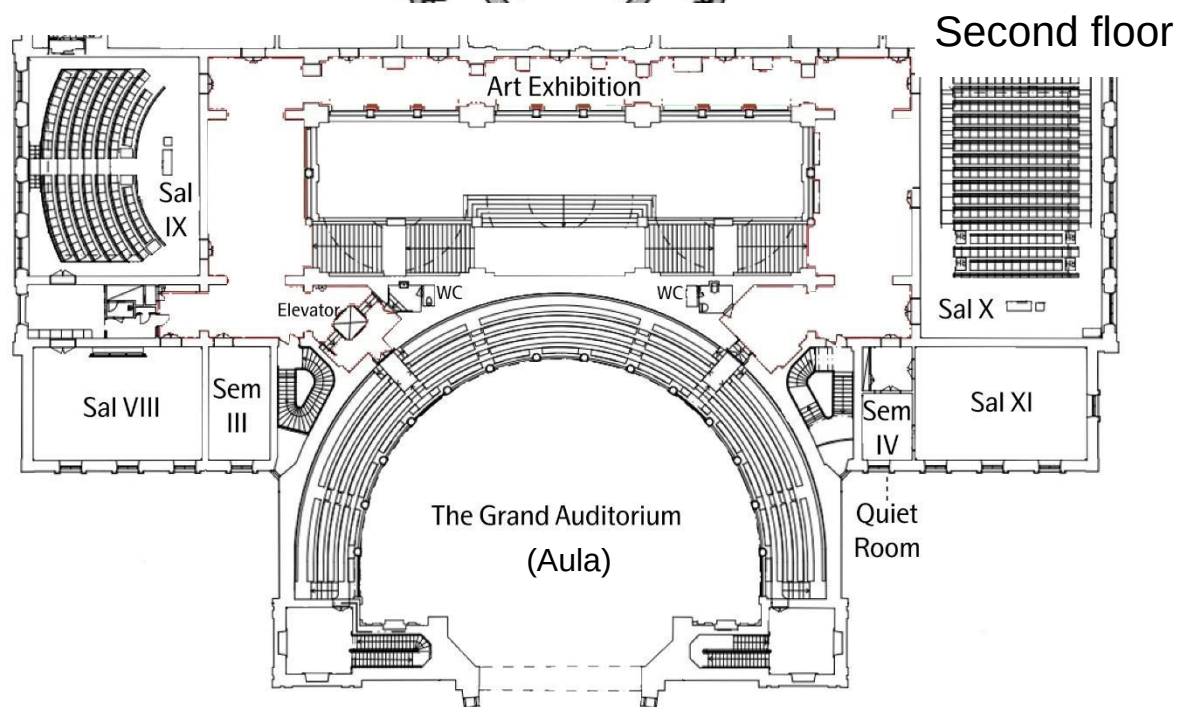

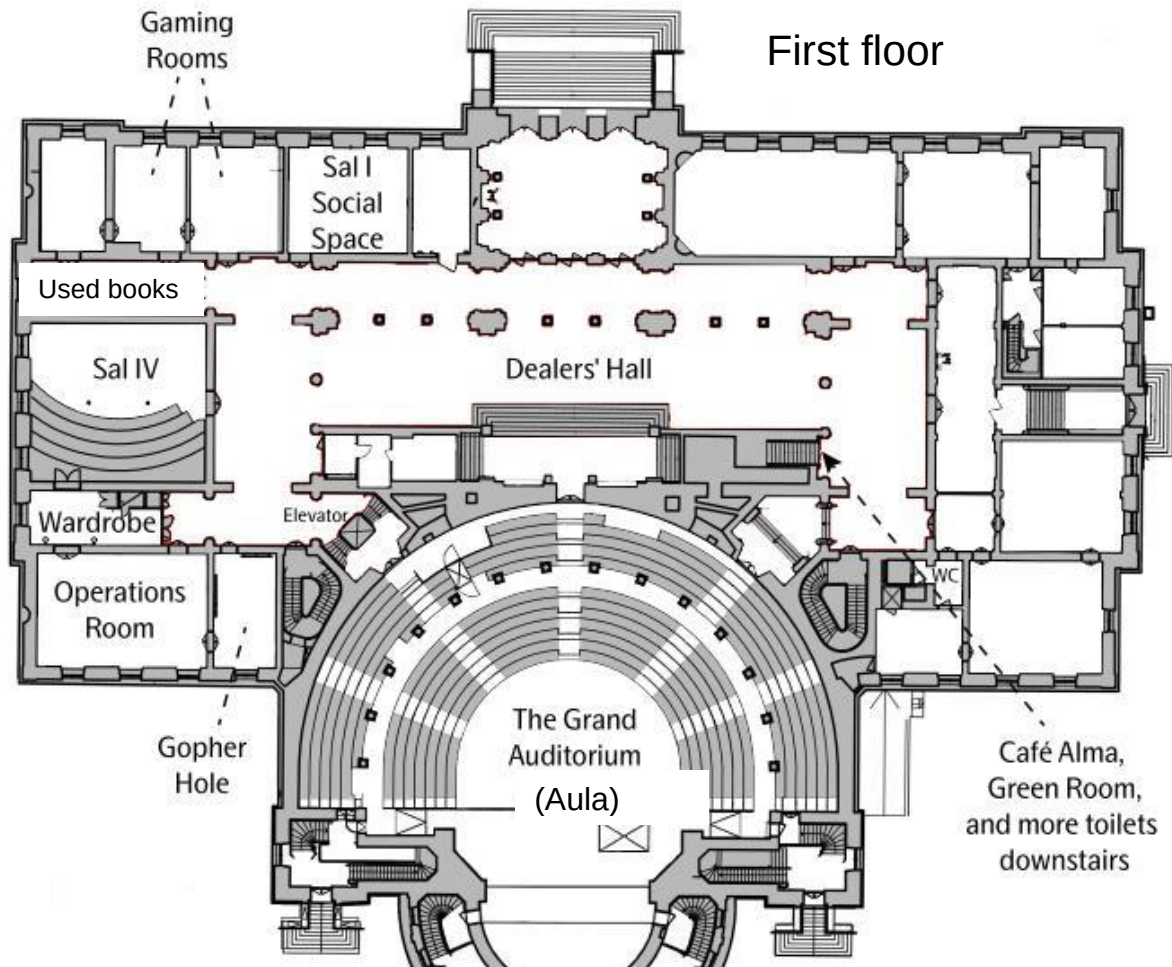

Gophers: A small army of helping hands is needed for all things con-related to run smoothly. Volunteering as a gopher is a great way to get to know others and a great help to the convention. You will also be compensated with vouchers you can use for buying food at Café Alma, getting your hands on a convention mug, buying books etc. (You'll get more info on this in the Gopher Hole!)

Convention rules: All members are responsible for reading and being aware of the Code of Conduct and the Access Statement. They are included in the Souvenir Book and we encourage you to read them and refresh your memory.

(Om du föredrar att läsa ordningsreglerna och Tillgänglighetsrapporten på svenska, så finns dessa också tillgängliga på hemsidan, under menyn "På svenska".)

Your badge should always be visibly worn. It is proof of your membership and your right to attend panels and other program items.

On Sunday evening 11th of June, we meet for the Dead Dog Party at Bishops Arms on Bäverns gränd 17 by Uppsala Central Station, from 18.00 and onwards. (We recommend that you eat beforehand at a restaurant of your choice, as Bishops Arms does not have the capacity to serve 150 people or so, food at the same time.)

Program items in italics are in Swedish. Length 45 min if not otherwise noted.

Thursday

16:00 Odinn's, Hrothgar's, Beorn's and Theoden's mead halls were a real thing and often get excavated. Sal VIII. Martin Rundkvist.

Tolkien based Beorn's and King Théoden's mead halls on a type of building that recurs in Old English and Old Norse literature. Archaeologists discovered in the mid-20th century that the literary mead hall is actually an accurate description of a real-world type of wooden building. None survive as standing structures. But decades of research have produced increasingly refined methods of finding and characterising the mead halls of forgotten petty kings around Northern Europe. Dr. Martin Rundkvist of the University of Łódź gives an introduction to this field of research with recent examples from the area around Linköping and Norrköping in Sweden.

16:00 Everything Everywhere All at Once. Sal XI. Discussion Group. Lennart Jansson (M).

The 2022 movie Everything Everywhere All at Once is full of genre references and still not really like anything else. It stunned many of us, and was showered in Oscars. We get together to dissect the many layers of this weird and wonderful movie, and discuss everything from family psychology to special effects.

16:00 Have Space Suit – Will Travel! The LARP scene goes into space. Sal IV. Britt-Inger Johansson.

LARP or live action role playing has developed rapidly over the recent decade from the local to the international. The level of ambition as to aesthetics, location, and props has also increased. Cultural heritage sites have been used as scenography for historicalLARPs, but can you successfully stage an imaginary sf scenario? In this lecture Britt-Inger Johansson will present three international LARPs she has participated in with some focus on plot ideas and scenography: Monitor Celestra, Lotka Volterra and Odysseus.

17:00 Translating the Worlds of Others. Sal IX. Bellis, Nahal Ghanbari (M), Cristina Macia, Sarianna Silvonen.

To translate speculative fiction is not only to bring someone else's words to life, but truly to make their inner worlds and the figments of their imaginations available and understood across language barriers.

What hurdles does one cross when translating SFF? Or is it, perhaps, all the more liberating to translate the fantastical and otherworldly?

17:00 Elvish script. Sal VIII. Workshop. Per Lindberg.

Tengwar, professor Tolkien's strange and beautiful writing system, has amazed us for over half a century. How does it work? This is a hands-on workshop where you will learn to read and write Tengwar. Bring a pen, any pen will do.

17:00 And then the patient dies. Sal IV. Veronica Atterhem.

What did that arrow hit, and what happens when you hit your head? A writer's guide to physical trauma – head, chest, and belly injuries and more – in a historical fantasy environment.

17:00 Märkliga urtidsdjur och deras värld. Sal X. Anna Davour (M), Johan Egerkrans, Torill Kornfeldt.

Många fantastiska varelser har levt på jorden, lika säregna som något vi kan tänka oss på främmande planeter: flygödlor, jättesengångare, jättelika trollsländor, med mera. Numera vet vi ganska mycket om många av dem och kan föreställa oss hur de levde. Ett samtal mellan en illustratör och två vetenskapsjournalister om utdöda djur och de versionerna av vår egen planet där de en gång levde.

17:00 Learn to make origami spaceships. Sem III. Workshop. Sidsel Pedersen.

Do you want to learn how to make a rocket or Star Destroyer? Come and learn how to fold a spaceship or two from square paper. This workshop is for complete beginners, and for people who've maybe folded a paper hat before.

17:00 Klingonska: Galaxens snabbast växande språk? Sal XI. Zrajm Akfogh.

Klingonska är ett av världens mest kända konstruerade språk. Hur kom språket till? Vem är det som talar det (utanför Star Trek)? Hur skiljer det sig från andra konstruerade språk, som till exempel esperanto? Här får du veta mer om språkets historia, dess talare, dess knasigheter och struktur. Och så förstås svaret på frågan om huruvida det verkligen är galaxens snabbast växande språk.

18:00 The Swedish RPG wonder. Sal IX. Johan Anglemark (M), Andreas Davour, Gunilla Jonsson, Ingvar Mattsson.

During the 80's role-playing games were huge in Sweden. Today we can see a renaissance with a growing interest in RPG:s, as well as an international interest in Swedish-created RPG:s. Why do they appeal to an international audience? What do they bring to the table, and how do today's games differ from the ones we immersed ourselves in four decades ago?

18:00 Using Speculative Fiction as Your Research Ground. Sal X. Anna Bark Persson, Niels Dalgaard, Karolina Fedyk, Cheryl Morgan (M), Merja Polvinen. Speculative fiction is the fertile soil from which we've grown a thousand ideas, while simultaneously acting as the lens through which we study those very same ideas and theories. But what does research in this field imply? Is there opportunity, funding, and support? Or is the trajectory of the research marred by the long-term stereotypes concerning the genre itself – that sff just isn't "good enough"?

18:00 Fairies with an Agenda. Sal IV. Saga Bokne, Tora Wall. What is the political project of pixies? What are the ideological implications of trolls? In folklore as well as in literature, folkloric creatures have often been imbued with ideological content or made to serve specific political ends, sometimes upholding hierarchies and norms, at other times inspiring resistance and change. In this talk, folklorist Tora Wall and literary scholar Saga Bokne address the political history of fairies and other creatures. The talk spans ancient Scandinavian folklore as well as contemporary American fantasy literature – and some things in-between.

18:00 Astronomisk Ungdom och SF. Sal VIII. Anton Lindbro. Astronomisk Ungdom är ett världsunikt förbund för ungdomar som är intresserade av astronomi. Vi håller på med allt från fysik- och astronomitävlingar, till roliga läger och bokcirklar. Vi finns i hela Sverige, med föreningar som specialiserar sig på allt möjligt inom rymden (bland annat en science fiction-förening!). Anton Lindbro berättar om verksamheten.

18:00 Reading: Hildur Knútsdóttir. Sal XI. Hildur Knútsdóttir reads from her latest novel The Night Guest (translation by Mary Robinette Kowal), followed by short Q&A.

19:00 Book Circle: All Systems Red. Sal VIII. Marie Engfors (M). We discuss the Hugo and Nebula award-winning novella All Systems Red, by Martha Wells. The book should be read prior to the convention!

19:00 nuqneH! Klingon workshop. Sem III. Zrajm Akfohg. Learn your first words and phrases in the Klingon language! The whole lesson is held in Klingon and suitable for complete beginners. Small group, signup required at the registration desk. Lär dig de första grunderna i klingonernas språk. Hela lektionen hålls på klingonska och passar nybörjare. Liten grupp, registrera dig i förväg vid registreringsdisken.

19:00 Hedersgästintervju: Johan Egerkrans. Sal X. Patrik Schylström (M).
Patrik Schylström intervjuar hedersgästen Johan Egerkrans.

19:00 Shipping It! Sal IV. Sanna Bo Claumarch, Nahal Ghanbari (M), Gabi Gomez, Sabrina Porterfield, Camilla Wallin Lämsä.

Fanfiction is booming across the internet, and more and more young authors admit to starting their writing trajectories on platforms like Ao3. Likewise, a generation of readers now share a collective truth about characters and stories, far from what the author ever intended.

What are the powers and pitfalls of fanfiction? Why do we keep reading amalgamations of the original stories? Is it perhaps more about the community and less about the story, and is that why we won't cut our losses and let the stories go?

19:00 Reading: Martha Wells. Sal IX.

Martha Wells reads from her latest novel, Witch King. Followed by short Q&A.

19:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Karin Tidbeck. Café Alma.

A small group joins author Karin Tidbeck for an informal talk over coffee at Café Alma. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee are complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

20:00 Handbok för medborgare i universum. Sal VIII. Ulf Danielsson.

En universell förening för intelligenta existenser i Universum har gett ut den första utgåvan av sin Handbok på jorden. Ulf Danielsson, redaktör för utgåvan, föreläser. Han ställer spännande frågor om intelligenta varelsers förmåga att förstå sin omgivning, om vad tid och gravitation är. Föreläsningen är också full med referenser till sci-fi och fantasy för att exemplifiera så humanoider skall förstå.

20:00 Sam J. Lundwall and SF in Sweden. Sal IV. Bellis, John-Henri Holmberg (M), Jörgen Jörälv.

For some, sf in Sweden during the 70's and 80's was practically eponymous with Delta Science Fiction and their yellow paperback publications. A small, niche publishing house, introducing the works of international giants to the Swedish masses, through the tireless work of editor and translator Sam J. Lundwall.

Our panel discusses Lundwall's impact, work, and legacy in Swedish sff.

20:00 Quis? - The Konflikt Edition. Sal IX. Gaming. Jukka Halme.

The (in)famous Quis? has made its way to Uppsala!

Jukka Halme sets the tone in this Eurocon-rendition of the much loved Finnish convention gameshow.

20:00 Climate fiction. Sal X. Vincent Docherty (M), Francesco Verso, Andrew Dana Hudson, Roderick Leeuwenhart, Åsa Lundström.

Climate change is an unavoidable in the near future. How is this climate-changed future presented in science fiction? What books grapple with the challenges and opportunities of addressing climate change? In what novels can we see the consequences of the changing climate as a sidekick and where is it the protagonist? This panel checks out the role of the climate in the SF and Fantasy literature.

Friday

10:00 Historical dances. Sal XI. Workshop. Per Lindberg.

Social dances from the Middle Ages to the Regency period. Branles, allemandes, pavaues, estampies, country dances, and more. For all, no prior knowledge or dancing skill required. Bring your two left feet and have fun with us!

10:00 SF crossing language barriers. Aula. Francesco Verso, Hildur Knútsdóttir, Roderick Leeuwenhart (M), Elena Pavlova, Luis F Silva, Karin Tidbeck.

Science Fiction is one of the most read book genres. But the market is very fragmented into national languages on one side, and the English-speaking market on the other side. How can we work across the translation barrier? How does a book survive the crossing of cultural and everyday references? Can you enter into the very competitive English-speaking market, and at what cost? This panel gives insights and thrilling information!

10:00 Hopepunk as a speculative subgenre. Sal X. Niels Dalgaard, Andrew Dana Hudson (M), Ian McDonald, Jane Mondrup, Örjan Westin.

Hopepunk, coined by Alexandra Rowland in 2017, is defined as "the opposite of grimdark".

Our panelists discuss the term and the intersection with other subgenres. We also discuss why the term is needed and what books could be considered Hopepunk.

10:00 The Mysteries of Urban Fantasy. Sal IX. Stefan Ekman.

Urban fantasy is popular, recent, and is mostly set in cities ... and everything else, people disagree about. Fantasy scholar Stefan Ekman (Karlstad University) has spent a few years trying to figure out what urban fantasy might be, how it works, and what the disagreement is all about. He will offer some thoughts on the intriguing nature and history of urban fantasy. (Based on his forthcoming book, Urban Fantasy: Investigating Modernity through Magic, from Lever Press.)

10:00 Flying cars and warp drives – The importance of transportation in SF. Sal IV. Saga Bolund, Patrik Centerwall (M), Kristina Hård, Klaus Æ. Mogensen, Edmund Schluessel.

The advancement around transportation has changed our society and our travel habits to the core. What will happen when it changes even further? In science fiction we have examples of everything from flying cars to spaceships going at the speed of light. What would our world look like if we could go around the planet in minutes? If we could travel to other planets in hours? How does societies change when our modes of transportation and habits around travel does?

11:00 Sweden Solar System. Sal IV. Shana Worthen.

A scale model of the Solar system is laid out across Sweden, where the Sun is represented by the spherical building Globen (Avicii arena) in Stockholm. Uppsala was the site of the planet Saturn, but sadly it has been removed. Shana Worthen presents the model, and, if the weather allows, we'll go out and recreate the size and location of Saturn to get a feeling for the size of our neighbourhood in space.

11:00 More than a thousand words: Illustrating the imagination. Aula. Johan Egerkrans, Britt-Inger Johansson (M), Matylda Naczyńska, Olivia Serwaa Bernardsson, Nina Tadsen, Toby Curden.

From Magic cards to children's books, pulp covers to lauded RPG artwork – the speculative world is brought to life not only through words but through the expressive and unforgettable work of many illustrators.

The panel discusses their work, how they found their own way in the industry, and what inspired and keeps inspiring them, along the way.

11:00 Magic in the modern world. Sal X. Stefan Ekman, Rhuddem Gwelin (M), Eva Holmquist, Åsa Lundström, Amanda Magnevell.

Contemporary and urban fantasy are often shorter and more fast-paced than epic fantasy, and technology can be included as an important part of the worldbuilding. How can magic in the modern world manifest? How can magic and technology interact in interesting ways? What appeal do these stories have?

11:00 Pokémon Go through Uppsala. Outside. Gaming. Kristina Bergkvist.

Pokémon Go has been around a while, and morphed a lot along the way. Some of us were in from the start, and new players from all over the world are joining every day. Whether you play to add some fun to your exercise, the sweet sensation of completion when you get that Relicanth to finally get the Hoenn platinum, or PvP gets your engine revving, there is much joy to be had in Pokémon Go.

The journey and the friendships are a big part of the game so let's have a meet up at Eurocon for trades, brags and maybe a pokéwalk to check out the local stops and active raids!

We meet at 11:00 at the venue's side entrance on Övre Slottsgatan 7D.

11:00 Omegaverse, Sex Pollen, and Gender-Creative Fantasy in the Jane Austen Fandom. Sal IX. Camilla Wallin Lämsä.

In the wake of bestselling mash-up novels like Pride & Prejudice & Zombies, the addition of fantasy elements to Jane Austen's storyworlds has become increasingly popular in online fanfiction. In this presentation PhD student Camilla Wallin Lämsä (Linköping University) sheds light on how some fantastical fanfiction tropes like sex pollen and omegaverse (or A/B/O) are reworked to fit the chaste Regency societies Jane Austen depicted, and how this is received in the fandom.

12:00 Opening Ceremony. Aula.

We welcome all members of this year's Eurocon and Swecon, introduce our Guests of Honour, and release the spirit of Swecon!

13:00 ESFS general meeting 1. Sal VIII. 180 mins.

Agenda for meeting 1:

Presentation of the nominees for the different awards.

Presentation of the bid for Eurocon 2025.

13:00 Working with the future. Sal X. Andrew Dana Hudson, Johan Jönsson (M), Anna Krook-Riekkola, Klaus Æ. Mogensen, Jesper Stage.

This panel brings together people whose daily work entails thinking about the future. What is that like? What can we actually say about the future, and how are these thoughts converted into plans? And what about science fiction, is it helping or obfuscating! How and why? Also, what is the difference between imagining futures as a futurist and as an sf writer?

13:00 Alternate History. Aula. Jean Bürlesk, Jukka Halme (M), Rasmus Häggblom, Cheryl Morgan, Martha Wells.

Alternate History is a fictional subgenre telling history the way it could have been. What if de Gaulle was killed in that attack? What if humans landed on the moon much earlier than the 1960's? There are many intriguing books to read! This panel talks about Alternate History books and discusses them. What is your favorite? Is it Fantastic literature or just cool?

13:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Hildur Knútsdóttir. Café Alma.

A small group join author Hildur Knútsdóttir for an informal talk over coffee. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

14:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Francesco Verso. Café Alma.

A small group joins our GoH for an informal talk over coffee. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

14:00 GoH Speech: Mind, Bodies and SF Storytelling. Aula. Merja Polvinen.

Today, literary scholars (as well as politicians, teachers, and social scientists) are trying to defend the role of reading and writing in our societies. Every day we are given news stories about how the reading of longer texts has lost its appeal among young people, or about how large language models write our letters, reports, and even fictions for us. In this talk I discuss how cognitive literary studies has taken part in this debate. This field of study describes reading and writing as cognitive technologies that make it possible for our embodied human minds to extend beyond the here and now. Speculative fiction, I suggest, is the perfect partner for making that argument, and through a series of readings of SF narratives, I show how they may shape our minds, bodies, and storytelling practices ever further.

14:00 Dating Gods and Monsters. Sal IV. Stina Björkelid, Jean Bürlesk, Sissel Hanström (M), Elena Pavlova.

From fairy tale retellings to paranormal romance; the list of stories where the mortal world and the supernatural or divine collide is long.

But are these prophesied couples, these all-consuming relationships, even that romantic?

After all, why would a god date a human? What does a thousand-year-old demon talk about with their teen girlfriend (a.k.a. the child bride)? What exactly does a human expect their future to hold when dating the divine? And why do we accept these skewed power dynamics as solid foundations for love?

14:00 Magical traditions in the world. Sal X. Fjóla Guðmundsdóttir, Rhuddem Gwelin, Gwen Frazer (M), Olivia Serwaa Bernardsson.

There are various magical traditions in the world. Every country and culture has their own kind of magic and mythology. Elemental and nature magic, voodoo and shamanism, magic through dreams, and souls, and more. How is magic portrayed in literature across Europe, and do we see many differences compared to the portrayals of magic across other continents?

14:00 Reading: Ian Watson. Sal XI. 30 mins.

Ian Watson reads from his latest short story collection, The Chinese Time Machine. Followed by short Q&A.

14:00 Fysik som skräck och som hopp. Sal IX. Anna Davour, Angelica Öhrn.

Fysik får spela många roller i populärkulturen. Det obekanta och osynliga, som strålning och partiklar, kan mata rädslan för det okända. Men det kan också fungera som framtidslöfte, med potentiella nya krafter till mänsklighetens förfogande. Eller som ramverk att ta spjärn mot för hjältar som ska lösa ett problem. Lyssna på två disputerade fysiker som avmystifierar verkligheten och skärskådar både påhittighet och missbruk av fysiken i fantastiken.

15:00 The Emperor's new book. Sal IX. Jukka Halme (M), John-Henri Holmberg, Stefan Högberg, Cheryl Morgan, Gunilla Rydbeck.

Sometimes a book just doesn't live up to the hype. Our panellists share their unpopular opinions about books they feel have been praised without actually being worthy. Are we missing something, or are some popular books just bad?

15:00 AI, robots and identity. Aula. Niels Dalgaard, Eva Holmquist, Andrew Dana Hudson, Mikko Rauhala (M), Martha Wells.

AI and robots are often used as a means to illuminate human characteristics within literature. Could AI and robots be used to explore identity? How can fiction explore relationship to self, to the own body, to other conscious entities or to the rest of the world through AI or Robot characters?

15:00 Hattverkstad med Steampunk-tema. Sal XI. Workshop. 150 mins. Kristin Thorrud.

Pricken över i:et på din steampunkstass eller en fin inredningsdetalj? Kristin Thorrud handleder dig i denna workshop där du får göra din egen dekorerade cylinderhatt i miniatyr! Tidsåtgången är två och en halv (2,5) timme.

Du får en liten lista på saker att ta med, resterande material kommer att finnas på plats. Ej drop-in, endast för medlemmar som föränmält innan kongressen.

15:00 Fan Funds and how to get yourself sent across the Globe. Sal IV. Johan Anglemark, Fia Karlsson, Marcin 'Alqua' Klak, Matylda Naczyńska, Sidsel Pedersen (M).

Fandom thrives and survives due to our voracious interest in SFF, but also the joy in meeting others with the same taste for it. Fan Funds are a way of securing exchanges between local and global fandoms, but what does a Fan Fund actually do?

Representatives of the European Fan Fund, The Trans-Atlantic Fan Fund and the Nordic Fan Fund discuss the work, how to send fans on international exchanges, and how we can help support a future exchange of experiences and knowledge within our community.

16:00 The Word for World is Forest – Hugo winner 50 years ago. Sal X. Lise Andreassen, Saga Bolund, Jessica Elgenstierna, Ian McDonald, Flemming Rasch (M). The Word for World Is Forest is a 1972 science fiction novella by Ursula K. Le Guin which won the Hugo Award for Best Novella 50 years ago. Which elements of the story made it Hugo Award-worthy? Which themes and concerns does it address and are they still relevant in today's society? Is it still worth reading?

16:00 "Phenomenal cosmic power! Itty bitty living space." Aula. Nahal Ghanbari (M), Karin Tidbeck.

The Djinn - a granter of wishes, a being of evil, or a source of unfathomable, benevolent power? As a growing presence in western fantasy literature, genies offer new possibilities in regards to untapped lore, power dynamics and representation. But with them comes the risks of fetishizing "the other" and of stories seeped in Orientalism. Karin Tidbeck and Nahal Ghanbari discuss the potentials and pitfalls of writing the Djinn, as well as their place among other canonically famous trickster beings and deities.

16:00 Stadsvandring. Outside. 120 mins. Lena-Maria Jansson (guide).

Lär känna Uppsala och dess historia genom några av sevärdheterna i centrala staden. Tänk på att ta bekväma skor. Samling utanför sidoingången, Övre Slottsgatan 7D.

16:00 Cats in literature, more than just Pelle Svanslös. Sal IV. Bellis (M), Otto Granath, Gwen Frazer, Hildur Knútsdóttir.

Uppsala is the Swedish city most strongly associated with cats, due to the legendary series of children's books about Peter No-Tail by Gösta Knutsson. Rumour has it, now that Eurocon is taking place in Uppsala, a host of cats from science fiction and fantasy literature are on their way here – the madly-grinning Cheshire Cat in Alice in Wonderland, the wise Petronius the Arbiter of Door Into Summer fame, the helpful Puss in Boots from the folk tale, and The Black Cat from Edgar Allan Poe's horror story ... to mention but a very few. We have been emphatically informed that in order to appease the invading horde of fantasticats, we have to honour them with a panel wherein we loudly salute them! Come join us, and meet the great cats of science fiction, fantasy, and horror!

17:00 GoH Interview: Francesco Verso. Aula. Carolina Gomez Lagerlöf (M). Guest of Honour Francesco Verso is interviewed by Carolina Gómez Lagerlöf.

17:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Merja Polvinen. Café Alma.

A small group joins our GoH for an informal talk over coffee. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

17:00 Conventions after the pandemic. Sal IV. Vincent Docherty, Saija Kyllönen, Karo Leikomaa, James Shields (M), Shana Worthen.

During the pandemic, many science fiction conventions became virtual, while others were just postponed until they could run again. How have conventions changed after the pandemic, or have they changed at all?

17:00 The wild magic of Diana Wynne Jones. Sal X. Nahal Ghanbari (M), Timothy Johansson, Jane Mondrup.

Diana Wynne Jones has been called "quite simply the best writer for children of her generation". She is best known for her book Howl's Moving Castle and for the Chrestomanci series. Here we discuss her authorship and the unique impact she has had as a writer.

17:00 A Musical History of Swedish Fandom. Sal IX. Karl-Johan Norén.

Karl-Johan Norén takes us on a short tour of the history of fandom in Sweden, from the 1950's until today, by means of the music that fans have made. The lyrics will be in Swedish and English, with English translations provided.

17:00 nugneH! Klingon workshop. Sal VIII. Zrajm Akfogh.

Learn your first words and phrases in the Klingon language! The whole lesson is held in Klingon and suitable for complete beginners. Small group, sign up required at the registration desk.

Lär dig de första grunderna i klingonernas språk. Hela lektionen hålls på klingonska och passar nybörjare. Liten grupp, registrera dig i förväg vid registreringsdisken.

18:00 Att skriva fantastik för barn. Sal IV. Boel Bermann, Oskar Källner, Camilla Linde, Patrik Schylström (M).

Hur skriver vi fantastik för barn? Vad skiljer sig i världsbygget, i personporträtt, i författarprocessen? Vilka motiv går att återfinna, och hur når vi den tilltänkta målgruppen?

Svenska barnboksförfattare diskuterar utmaningarna och höjdpunkterna med att skriva fantastik med yngre läsare som målgrupp.

18:00 As You Wish: Princess Bride 35 Years. Aula. Jan Lindgren, Marika (M), Merja Polvinen, Maria Särnhammar, Karin Waller.

This past October marks the 35th anniversary of The Princess Bride. A meta-narrative combining sly satire with classical fantasy tropes, this classic has been an introduction to the fantastical for many people. But be warned! This is a kissing book. Prepare to die!

18:00 Sorrow and speculative fiction – Ways of healing a trauma and reinforcing resilience. Sal IX. Magdalena Hai, Jenny Kangasvuori (M), Taru Kumara-Moisio, J.S. Meresmaa.

How can speculative fiction handle sorrow and trauma, namely the traces and scars of conflict? What kind of stories can be told about healing, after something has been permanently shattered, or vanished?

Four Finnish authors get together to discuss how they tell stories about conflict and death, and what new things can grow from sadness and loss. Hope, resilience – or something with horns, scales, cogwheels and black bones?

18:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Ian Watson. Café Alma.

A small group joins author Ian Watson for an informal talk over coffee. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

19:00 Vaesen - The creatures of Nordic myth and lore. Aula. Patrik Centerwall (M), Johan Egerkrans, Sara Engström, Oskar Källner, Katarina Norrgård.

In Swedish/Nordic folklore there are several mythical and mysterious creatures: the Nicor, the nighttime Mara, the Huldra, trolls, faeries, mylings ... and on it goes. In the old days they were a natural part of the world. Which vaesen is the most fascinating, elusive, or perilous? How can we take an old vaesen and make something new of it in storytelling?

19:00 First contact then and now. Sal X. Vincent Docherty, Pierre Gevert, Johan Jönsson (M), Farah Mendlesohn, Edmund Schluessel.

First contact books have always been part of the sf genre. How has the depiction of first contact changed over time? How do we look at first contact today compared to the past? What has changed and why?

19:00 Glass as a material through the ages. Sal IV. Moa Råhlander.

Glass is a wonderful material, a liquid frozen in time. As a material it is an entity in itself, not related to anything else. It is one of the first synthetic materials created by humans. For the craftsman it exists in the best of two worlds: it can be cut and polished as a gemstone. It can also be melted, worked as a metal and reused almost into infinity. For thousands of years, since its invention 3600 years ago, this was one of the most beautiful and extraordinary materials available. Archaeologist Moa Råhlander talks about the history, qualities, and myths about glass, with a strong connection to the trade of the first millennium, the jewelry of the Vikings and some examples from Uppland and Gotland.

19:00 European synchronism and national specificity in Romanian science fiction. Sal IX. Ionut Manea (M), Maria-Alexandra Manea, Andrei Nedel, Izabela Radosevici.

Romanian SF or anticipation literature, had its first representations at the end of the 19th century. First introduced by important mainstream authors, it was subsequently championed by Victor Anestin, a writer devoted to popularizing science.

The panel discusses the last century in Romanian SF – from French influences and Soviet inspired socialist realism, to the influx of Anglo-American influences after the cultural opening in 1964.

What are the themes and motifs in circulation, how is it that the specificity of contemporary Romanian authors often appears in the form of an unusualness of situations, a symbiosis between historical reality and a fantasy of mysteries, or transformations with no logic in sight? And what of "poetic coordination", an element that many critics of Romanian science fiction have been calling for?

19:00 What We Talk About When We Talk About Writing. Outside. 180 mins. Stina Björkelid (M), Sarah Underwood, Martha Wells.

The Uppsala English Bookshop invites you to a conversation with Eurocon Guest of Honour Martha Wells, and the English Bookshop Special Guest Sarah Underwood, on the many facets of writing. From experiencing publication for the first time, or returning to a series or character that's well known, to writing for a young adult demographic in the age of BookTok, or re-shaping a story or world already established and making it your own. The panel is followed by a signing and a mingle. Open to all!

Held at the bookshop, address Svartbäcksgatan 19 (less than 5 min walk down the street from the venue).

20:00 Crafting circle / Hantverkscirkel. Sal XI. Discussion Group. Lena-Maria Jansson (M).

Knitting, crochet or perhaps whittling or origami -- bring your own project and have a chat and a good time. Maybe you'll get to know some new people, and be inspired by each others' current creations.

20:00 Kill your Darlings: When Authors Murder our Favourites. Sal X. Anders Björkelid, Jenny Kangasvuo, Ian Sales (M), Thomas Årnfelt.
How does an author lovingly commit murder? And how do readers accept said loss? Our panelists share the difficulties, as well as the joys, in offing characters both despised and adored, and share the most gut-wrenching losses in fiction that they still haven't gotten over.
(Spoiler alert, obviously!)

20:00 FILK: Open Song Circle. Sal VIII. Karl-Johan Norén.
Come to sing, share, and listen!

20:00 Runstenar och runskrift för dummies. Outside. 60 mins. Jonathan Olsson (M).
Vi går en kort promenad till de runstenarna som finns i närheten av universitet och tittar på livet i Uppsala för 1000 år sedan. Vilka var det som skrev och reste runstenarna? Vad står det på dem och varför restes de? Vi avslutar med en kort lektion i runskrift. Guidturen leds av den cert. guiden Jonathan Olsson.
Obs! 60 minuter, tänk på att samlas 5 minuter innan nedanför trappan utanför huvudingången. Samma guidning finns även på engelska under namnet Viking runestone tour and runes for dummies.

20:00 Speculative Poetry and Where to Find It. Sal IV. Tomas Cronholm (M), Matti Järvinen, Johan Jönsson, Sara Norja.
The panel discusses speculative poetry and what sets it apart from the mainstream. What can poetry and verse bring to the sf and fantasy genres? And above all: who writes it, and where do you find it?

Saturday

09:00 Saturday morning run. Outside. 60 mins. Anders Hedenlund.
Would you care for a run (or walk) on Saturday morning? Join Anders Hedenlund for an Uppsala Park Run at Stadsträdgården. We will walk or jog from the stairs of the University Hall at 9:00. Run starts at 9:30.

10:00 ESFS general meeting 2. Sal VIII. 120 mins.
Agenda for meeting 2:
Decision on Eurocon 2025
Any other questions.
Both delegates and members of Konflikt can vote in the site selection of Eurocon 2025.
Only delegates can vote on the other topics discussed in the meeting.

10:00 Trending in the Nordics. Sal IX. Boel Bermann, Patrik Centerwall, Marija Fischer Odén, Hildur Knútsdóttir, Anna Sellin (M).

We scout the latest within the realms of Nordic speculative literature. What trends are on the rise across the different age demographics? What's on the horizon, which tropes and storylines have we left behind, and which half-forgotten ghosts of the past can't we wait to bring back to life?

10:00 Using multi-million dollar space technology to find Tupperware in the woods: Geocaching 101. Sal XI. Hans Persson.

Here you will learn what geocaching is, how it works, and why it may be your next hobby. Hans Persson (known as pinkunicorn in the geocaching world) has been hunting the wild Tupperware in the woods for almost 20 years. The lecture is followed by an excursion (scheduled as PART II).

10:00 Fantasykanalen live! Aula. Frida Blomqvist, Stefan Ekman, Stefan Högberg, Hampus Lybeck, Tillan Lybeck, Anders Olsson.

De har släppt över åttio avsnitt, men de har aldrig haft livepublik förut. Nu är det dags! Kom och se Fantasykanalen recensera, diskutera och duellera (förhoppningsvis bara med ord) medan de spelar in mitt under självaste Eurocon. En pinfärsk bok recenseras, och sedan ställs tre kanalister mot väggen och får nittio sekunder var att bevisa sin ståndpunkt i en nyckelfråga för fantasy. Vem har rätt? Det är där publiken kommer in.

10:00 Retelling fairytales from a feminist perspective. Sal X. Jean Bürlesk, Otto Granath (M), Fjóra Guðmundsdóttir, Jonathan Olsson, Sarah Underwood.

Retelling of fairytales is a genre of its own, often used to tell stories from different perspectives and flip the narratives. There are a number of retold fairytales that have illustrated a feministic point of view. What makes fairytales so attractive? Why use fairytales for feminist purposes?

10:00 Lär dig att skriva skräck. Sem III. Workshop. Camilla Linde.

Gillar du att skrämmas? Gillar du att skriva? Då kanske det här är workshopen för dig! Under passet bjuder författaren Camilla Linde på sina bästa tips för att skriva läskigt. Vi testar sedan på att skriva egna, hårresande texter. Välkommen på workshop! Om du törs förstås.

Rekommenderad ålder: 9 till 13 år.

11:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Johan Egerkrans. Café Alma.

A small group joins our GoH for an informal talk over coffee at Café Alma. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

11:00 GoH Speech: From the old "Sense of Wonder" to the new "Sense to Wander". Aula. Francesco Verso.

A multicultural approach to Science Fiction dealing with native innovation and radical inclusivity. Over the course of 8 years, Francesco Verso has published more than 70 books in translation from 13 languages and more than 35 countries with authors such as Liu Cixin, Vandana Singh, Oliver Paquet, Pepe Rojo, Fabio Fernandes, Ken Liu, and many others. The Sense of Wander is a precious and useful tool to "decolonize the imagination" and restore dignity to all the major Futures that have been neglected by the current dominant English culture.

11:00 A city walk with Pelle Svanslös, the cat with no tail. Outside.

A city walk with Pelle Svanslös, the cat with no tail, and the titular star of the much-loved Swedish children's book series created by Gösta Knutsson. We meet 5 min before start in the shadow of the Cathedral (1 min walk down the street from venue side entrance, small square between Cathedral and Gustavianum museum).

11:00 Strange new worlds. Sal IX. Vincent Docherty (M), Katja Lindblom, Anton Lindbro, James Shields.

Over the past 25 years or so, more than 5000 exoplanets have been found and confirmed. The variety of these planetary systems is greater than astronomers had expected, with wildly different planets than those we know from here around Sol. Which ones could harbour life, and what would it look like? Could humans ever live on planets around other stars, and what are the challenges? We also talk about some sf stories that have done interesting things with this new knowledge.

11:00 Blixtar och dunder, magiska under – magisystem i fantastiklitteratur. Sal X. Anders Björkelid, Kristina Hård, Mattias Kuldkepp, Maria Nygård (M).

Magi är en grundläggande aspekt av fantasy, och det finns lika många olika magisystem som det finns fantasyromaner.

Men behöver magi vara organiserat i ett konsekvent system? Kan man ge läsaren en förståelse för reglerna och begränsningarna för magin utan att mystiken går förlorad? Vilka är några av våra favoritmagisystem, och vad gör dem unika och intressanta?

11:00 Digital, always connected – will this be our doom or paradise? Sal IV. Magnus Carling, Flemming Rasch (M), Mikko Rauhala, Angelica Öhrn.

As we connect more and more devices, build our digital society and rely on instant, always online services, where are we going? Could the growing digital society lead to our doom, or will it be paradise? This panel talks about the downsides of the current digital trends and gives their view on whether AI could solve mankind's problems or will ultimately lead to our doom.

11:00 Using multi-million dollar space technology to find Tupperware in the woods: Geocaching 101 PART II. Outside. Hans Persson.

Here you will learn what geocaching is, how it works, and why it may be your next hobby. Hans Persson (known as pinkunicorn in the geocaching world) has been hunting the wild Tupperware in the woods for almost 20 years. This is an excursion following the lecture.

12:00 Stadsvandring i Upsalafandoms fotspår. Outside. 90 mins. Karin Kruse.

Science fiction-fans har haft upptåg för sig i denna stad i decennier. Vi strosar i omgivningarna med Karin Kruse som ciceron, för att titta på skådeplatser för såväl rena galenskaper som Seriösa och Konstruktiva aktiviteter. Samling utanför sidoingången, Övre slottsgatan 7D.

12:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Martha Wells. Café Alma.

A small group joins our GoH for an informal talk over coffee at Café Alma. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

12:00 Alien ambassadors and futuristic linguistics. Aula. Jean Bürlesk, Hildur Knútsdóttir, Luke, Sara Norja (M), Merja Polvinen.

Any science fiction story involving extraterrestrials, first contact, alien invasions, or interstellar war must deal with the problem of communication. Some authors circumvent it by inventing intergalactic languages or universal translators, but in some stories, this obstacle is instead a central theme.

What novels, short stories, and shows address the issues of language and communication with beings from other planets? How can we create or even conceive of alien languages when we ourselves are constrained by human language? And what can stories about alien languages and relations tell us about how humans can learn to communicate with each other?

12:00 Where's the handrail? Work environment safety and unionizing in SFF. Sal IX. Anna Jakobsson Lund (M), Moa Råhlander, Ian Sales, Edmund Schluessel.

In SFF, as in real life, there are many wheels that turn the cogs: people in the imperial kitchens, factory workers at the algae plants, or sanitation crews at the space labs.

Who are they really? Why don't we hear their stories?

There are lots of dangers in the fictional workplaces after all, and it leads us to wonder: do terraformers unionize? Do henchmen get dental? What is the legal age of retirement for a space marine (should they live to see it)? And do we have picket lines in space?

12:00 Families of the future. Sal X. Saga Bolund, Eva Holmquist (M), Jane Mondrup, Cheryl Morgan, Nina Niskanen.

The nuclear family is a relatively recent invention. Going into the future, families may be something very different. In science fiction there are many descriptions of unconventional family structures. How do we imagine the families of the future today? How have these been explored within the SF genre?

12:00 First convention? Meet and greet! Sal XI. Discussion Group. Fia Karlsson (M), Sidsel Pedersen.

Is this your first convention? A seasoned con-goer will introduce you to all the tips and tricks of getting the most out of it, and share the secrets to having a good time. You also get a short introduction to the general phenomenon of science fiction conventions.

12:00 Workshop: Introduction to Turf. Outside. 10 mins. Birgitta Stridh.

A Turf event in beautiful Uppsala. Get to know our lovely Eurocon city alongside other Turfers. A short intro before we start – we meet by the venue's side entrance at Övre Slottsgatan 7D.

12:15 TURF in Uppsala. Outside. Gaming. Birgitta Stridh.

Come and try out Turf during Eurocon! It's easy, fun, and something you can do anytime and everywhere.

Turf is a game where you walk to specific zones on the map, then hold the zone until another Turfer comes along and takes it from you. It's easy, fun, and as competitive as you make it. Block other Turfers or play friendly, it's up to you. You get points for every zone you take and compete against players all around the world.

13:00 I love to hate you! Is it possible to love problematic authors and their work?

Sal IX. John-Henri Holmberg, Pernilla Lindgren, Åsa Lundström, Farah Mendlesohn, Britt-Louise Viklund (M).

When the creator of a beloved work acts badly, it can be difficult to differentiate the work from its author. How does it change our view of their work? Can we love things created by people we hate?

13:00 Immortal Beings: The rising popularity of Xianxia. Aula. Sanna Bo

Claumarch, Fia Karlsson (M), Katarina Norrgård, Sabrina Porterfield, Martha Wells.

Mythology, taoism, martial arts, and folklore meet in the popular Chinese fantasy genre Xianxia, with series like The Untamed, Immortal Samsara, and Love Between Fairy and Devil rising to worldwide popularity. From unyielding love stories to 5000 costume pieces per set, the panel discusses what draws them to Xianxia, why they believe it resonates so with its audience, and what they wish to see more of within the genre in the upcoming years.

13:00 Short story series. Sal IV. Eva Holmquist, Johan Jönsson (M), Anne Leinonen, Örjan Westin.

It's common to write series consisting of short stories, for instance Dean Wesley Smith's Poker Boy series stories each feature the same protagonist, and Kristine Kathryn Rusch's The Faerie Justice series stories take place in the same universe with a common theme but different protagonists. How well does the short story format translate into series? How come we enjoy it so much? And why does an author choose to write it like that?

13:00 Reading: Sara Bergmark Elfgren. Sal XI. 30 mins.

Sara Bergmark Elfgren reads from the English translation of her latest novel, Grim.

13:00 You know nothing. Sal VIII. Workshop. Amanda Magnevell, Lisa Ylitalo (M).

Vill du lära känna dina karaktärer bättre? Skriva tydligare och djupare personskildringar? Då är det här föreläsningen för dig. Vi pratar protagonister, antagonister och sidokaraktärer. Ta med skrivblock, skrivövningar kommer att ske.

14:00 GoH Interview: Johan Egerkrans. Aula. Gabrielle de Bourg (M).

Gabrielle de Bourg interviews Guest of Honour Johan Egerkrans.

14:00 Guided tour of Uppsala (general historical theme). Outside. 120 mins. Lena-Marie Jansson (guide).

See the sights of Uppsala and get to know some local history by walking around the town center with an authorized local tour guide. The tour starts outside the side entrance. Bring good shoes!

14:00 Future Power – Energy in SF. Sal IX. Tomas Cronholm (M), Andrew Dana Hudson, Anna Krook-Riekkola, Mattias Kuldkepp, Anton Lindbro.

Dyson spheres, space-based solar beams, antimatter propulsion – science fiction is full of fantastical energy sources and technologies. But as the need for energy transition grows more urgent, how realistic are they when the limits of the real world need to be considered?

Our (solar) panel discuss what sci-fi energy sources might become reality, and which we want to see. Can science fiction fuel future innovation? Or are futuristic energy sources an unnecessary distraction from the tech we already have?

14:00 Force feeding fantasy classics to the next generation. Sal IV. Marija Fischer Odén, John-Henri Holmberg, Heidi Lyshol (M), Gunilla Rydbeck.

We fondly remember the science fiction and fantasy classics we grew up with, and we want the next generation of readers to share those experiences. But how do we introduce old SF to new readers without scaring them off? And should we even do so?

14:00 Bortbytingar – The Changelings. Sal X. Kristina Hård, Filip Landell, Linn Liljemo (M), J.S. Meresmaa, Gustav Tegby.

Across Europe, we have tales of the Changelings – trolls or fae children that have been placed in cribs of households after their own parents stole a human child. The stories tell of families desperately searching for their lost children, but also of the loneliness and the misery that befalls the changelings themselves.

We discuss the myth of the Changeling, how it's applied in contemporary fiction, and how the lonely and the ostracized are represented in our folktales.

14:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Ian McDonald. Café Alma.

A small group joins author Ian McDonald for an informal talk over coffee at Café Alma. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

15:00 Contemporary SF and Fantasy TV shows. Sal IX. Jenny Bristle (M), Anna Gomez Lagerlöf, Tobias Jarl, Tommy Persson, Flora Staglianò.

In this panel we discuss SF and fantasy tv shows. Are there typical traits to be found, themes or perspectives that connect shows culturally or geographically? We also give loads of tips on tv shows you should not miss!

15:00 The Return of Baba Jaga: Slavic-inspired SFF. Sal X. Stina Björkelid (M), Karolina Fedyk, Elena Pavlova.

"Hut, hut, turn your face to me and your back towards the forest."

After centuries' long presence in Slavic and Russian cautionary tales and myths, Baba Yaga, the Upyrs, and the Domovojs are stepping into fantastic fiction across the globe. From Katherine Arden and Naomi Novik's fairy tale retellings, to Leigh Bardugo's Grishaverse and the serialization of The Witcher, we discuss the culture, creatures, and stories that draw their inspiration from Slavic folklore.

15:00 Thanks, I made it myself! Sal IV. Sanna Bo Claumarch, Ingvar Mattsson, Moa Råhlander, Kristin Thorrud (M), Robert Östberg.

There are many ways of immersing ourselves into fandom – cosplaying and LARPing offer some of the more interesting when it comes to craftsmanship, as well as being among the more time-consuming ways of deep diving into the arts and aesthetics of your chosen piece of fiction.

The panel share their biggest struggles and successes, hacks, tutorials, and their enthusiasm for making everything from worbla armour to authentic medieval designs.

15:00 Skapa en egen planet. Sal XI. Workshop. Camilla Linde.

Hur gör egentligen författare för att hitta på allting? Camilla Linde är författaren bakom barnbokserien "Snack Parrows intergalaktiska rymdbyrå", och i den här workshopen tar hon med er på sin resa. Hur kom det sig att hon började skriva böcker? Och vad kan man tänka på när man skapar helt nya världar? Tillsammans hittar vi sedan på egna planeter och varelser som bor på dem. Alla deltagare skapar utifrån sin förmåga och det är inget krav att vara skrivkunnig. (Passar särskilt barn i åldern 6-10 år.)

15:00 Holding up a distorted mirror to the world. Aula. Francesco Verso, Eva Holmquist, Amanda Magnevell, Hans Persson (M), Merja Polvinen.

Even though science fiction takes place in the future, it comments on the contemporary world. It's fundamentally about here and now. By changing the time, place and circumstances of our human existence, we can discuss and illuminate aspects of our reality. SF can be seen as holding up a distorted mirror to the world in order to understand it better. How is this done? And has it changed over the years?

15:00 nugneH! Klingon workshop. Sem III. Zrajm Akfogh.

Learn your first words and phrases in the Klingon language! The whole lesson is held in Klingon and is suitable for complete beginners. Small group, signup required at the registration desk.

Lär dig de första grunderna i klingonernas språk. Hela lektionen hålls på klingonska och passar nybörjare. Liten grupp, registrera dig i förväg vid registreringsdisken.

15:00 Reading: Sarah Underwood. Sal VIII. 30 mins.

Sarah Underwood reads from her debut novel Lies We Sing to the Sea, followed by a short Q&A.

16:00 JUICE, a mission to the moons of Jupiter. Sal XI. Jan-Erik Wahlund.

Jan-Erik Wahlund, associate professor in astrophysics at Uppsala University, presents The Jupiter Icy Moons Explorer (JUICE), an interplanetary spacecraft in development by the European Space Agency (ESA).

16:00 GoH Interview: Martha Wells. Aula. Anna Jakobsson Lund (M).

Anna Jakobsson Lund interviews Guest of Honour Martha Wells.

16:00 Let the Swedish horror in. Sal IV. Boel Bermann, Gunilla Jonsson (M), Michael Petersen, Markus Sköld.

A conversation between Swedish horror writers about the monsters that lurk in the Swedish people's souls and which we fear. Is there anything distinctive about Swedish horror? Any recurring themes? Can the wild Swedish nature be used as something more than an atmospheric backdrop, perhaps a representation of the unknown or a coming threat?

16:00 Tillbaka till månen och vidare till Mars. Sal IX. Katarina Eriksson (M), Katja Lindblom, Anton Lindbro, Björn Mårtensson, Ollie Östlund.

Nu flyger vi till månen igen och snart flyger vi till Mars. Kommer mer och bättre rymdreseteknik, mer erfarenhet eller tv-serier från verkliga rymdresor förändra hur vi beskriver rymden i science fiction? Eller blir sf om månen och Mars en ny trend?

16:00 Viking runestone tour and runes for dummies. Outside. 60 mins. Jonathan Olsson.

We'll walk to the runestones near the University and talk about what life in Uppsala could have been like a 1000 years ago. Who carved these runestones, and why? At the end of the tour we'll have a short lesson in writing runes. The program item is held by authorized guide Jonathan Olsson.

Please observe: 60 min. Gather at the bottom of the stairs in front of the main entrance 5 min before the tour starts. The tour will also be held in Swedish under the name Runstenar och runskrift för dummies.

16:00 Workshop: Bygg din egen värld tillsammans med Pernilla Lindgren. Sem III. 120 mins.

Vi kommer tillsammans med läraren och skrivpedagogen Pernilla Lindgren att göra roliga och korta övningar som inspirerar till världsbygge. Vi gör övningar där vi sår ett frö till en historia, som ger möjligheter och idéer till ditt eget framtida skrivande. Anmäl dig på lista vid registreringsdisken.

17:00 Swecon site selection and Upcoming European cons and bids. Sal XI. Tomas Cronholm, Mikołaj Kowalewski, Karo Leikomaa (M), Claudia Rapp, James Shields.

Konflikt, the Uppsala Eurocon, is also Swecon, but where will Swecon be next year? We select next year's Swecon. All members welcome!

After the selection, a panel will present Archipelacon 2, MetropolCon, and other upcoming cons and bids for 2023 to 2026.

17:00 How new people find the role-playing hobby. Sal IX. Johan Anglemark (M), Matylda Naczyńska, Michael Petersen, Flemming Rasch.

There's once again a growing interest in role-playing games, but what is behind this trend? How do the newly-initiated even find their way into RPG? Is it because of representation in popular culture with a wider target audience, like the tv series Stranger Things, or is it due to our isolation during the pandemic? Is there a reason why more people might turn to role-playing games today, compared to 10 years ago?

17:00 Ohemula mängder efterforskning. Sal X. Sara Bergmark Elfgren, Anders Björkelid, Anna Sellin (M), Örjan Westin, Thomas Årnfelt.

Att skriva fantastik kan ibland tolkas som ett frikort att hitta på mest vad som helst. Men håller exempelvis inte tidsmarkörerna och detaljerna för närmare granskning, är det lätt att en läsare tappar sugen.

Att fastna i efterforskningsfällan är enkelt, och trots att vi kan kasta in ett rymdskepp eller en trollstav är det svårt att ta sig därifrån. Hur ger man liv åt en stad som redan finns, eller skriver om en tidsepok utan att fastna i anakronismer, samtidigt som vi håller liv i de fantastiska elementen?

17:00 Æsir – The Nordic Gods and Myths. Aula. Johan Egerkrans, Marija Fischer Odén (M), Fjóla Guðmundsdóttir, Rhuddem Gwelin.

From RPGs to Marvel comics, the Nordic Gods keep returning, bringing with them tales of both their heroics and of the most fickle trickeries. But the retellings of Æsir myths can seem somewhat repetitious and righteous; only the most famous characters, or clean-cut versions, see the light of day.

To counter this, our panel will share their favourite tidbits from Æsir myths – the strangest, the silliest, the most horrific. The backstories of gods so small they'll never get movie deals, and the comedy of error storylines that seem almost Shakespearean!

17:00 Reading: Ian McDonald. Sal IV. 30 mins.

Ian McDonald reads from his latest novel, Hopeland.

18:00 Prepare for impact: Rewatching Star Trek. Sal IV. Saga Bolund, Carolina Gomez Lagerlöf (M), Marika, Flora Staglianò.

Our reactions while rewatching Star Trek. This will be a hilarious, improvised panel on the things that pop into the heads of the panelists about Star Trek. And there will be many with subjects like Captain Kirk, Mudd, pills, the beamer, holograms etc. to get to know anew.

18:00 Giving up your siblings for Turkish Delight. Sal X. Linnéa Anglemark (M), Elisabeth Berglund, Stina Björkelid, Sara Engström, Nina Niskanen.

For a box of Turkish Delight, Edmund Pevensie pawned his siblings off to the White Witch. It begs the question: how amazing is Turkish Delight really?!

SFF is filled with references to food and drink that have rooted themselves into the collective consciousness of readers and viewers for decades. The panel discusses food and drink that's made an impact on them, as well as the constant divide in the nature of food itself in SF (representing sustenance) vs. fantasy (representing temptation or joy).

18:00 Övergivna platser och liminala utrymmen. Aula. Kristina Hård, Amanda Setterwall (M), Markus Sköld, Karin Tidbeck, Lisa Ylitalo.

Sjukhuskorridorer, vänthallar och gamla hus: vardagliga platser som snabbt blir obehagliga när de töms på folk ... Ibland är hela städer "övergivna", som Area X i Annihilation av Jeff VanderMeer och den nedsläckta staden i Folktomt av Markus Sköld. Vad är det med liminala platser som skrämmer oss så mycket, och hur kan dessa utrymmen användas i skräcklitteraturen? Lär dig hur du kan skriva fram en otäck och kuslig atmosfär genom att ta del av panelsamtalet. Men risken finns att du är ensam där.

18:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Sara Bergmark Elfgren. Café Alma.

A small group joins author Sara Bergmark Elfgren for an informal talk over coffee at Café Alma. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

18:00 Varför analoga spel. Sal VIII. Artemis Lumarker.

Ett inspirerande föredrag om spel och varför vi spelar. Föredraget fokuserar på analoga spel och tar upp vad som är ett spel, vilka olika sorters spel det finns, varför vi spelar dessa och hur spel fungerar som kulturbärare. Dessutom handlar det om hur spel kan användas i projekt, utbildning och som socialt verktyg för att förena oss över tävningsslagen.

19:00 GoH Interview: Merja Polvinen. Aula. Anna Bark Persson (M).

Guest of Honour Merja Polvinen is interviewed by Anna Bark Persson.

19:00 Fan Fund Auction. Sal IV. 120 mins. Bellis (M), Fia Karlsson, Marcin 'Alqua' Klak.

The Nordic Fan Fund (NoFF), Trans-Atlantic Fan Fund (TAFF), and the newly-launched European Fan Fund (EFF) join forces in getting you to empty your pockets for a good cause!

19:00 Be quiet, Bonnie Tyler! We don't need a superhero! Sal X. Stefan Högberg, Oskar Källner, Pernilla Lindgren, Flemming Rasch (M).

With great power comes great responsibility, but who really asked for superheroes? In the beginning we had omnipotent god-like superheroes with barely any flaws.

Superman was noble and almost divine, the Phantom ruled his African jungle with great wisdom, and Wonder Woman was a powerful voice for justice.

Then what? Recently we've seen more and more examples of a critical take on superheroes; Superman no longer gets away with turning the Eiffel Tower upside down, Minions want their freedom, and The Boys portrays the supes as a corporate, all-powerful evil. The panel discusses many perspectives on superheroes: their legacy, the superhero paradox, and what happens when we start killing them off.

19:00 nugneH! Klingon workshop. Sem III. Zrajm Akfogh.

Learn your first words and phrases in the Klingon language! The whole lesson is held in Klingon and is suitable for complete beginners. Small group, signup required at the registration desk.

Lär dig de första grunderna i klingonernas språk. Hela lektionen hålls på klingonska och passar nybörjare. Liten grupp, registrera dig i förväg vid registreringsdisken.

20:00 Speculative fiction as an arena for the queer agenda. Sal X. Gabrielle de Bourg, Nina Niskanen (M), Karin Tidbeck, Karin Waller.

Fiction offers many ways of portraying various kinds of lives and experiences. Is speculative fiction especially well suited for the telling of queer stories? How can speculative fiction connect to and talk about queer themes and queer values?

20:00 FILK: Nordic Mythology Song Circle. Sal XI. Karl-Johan Norén.

Sing, share, and listen to songs of trolls, magical beings of the glades, forests, and seas, Norse gods, or simply histories of the Nordics. Any attempt to sing Sinclairsvisan will be limited to a maximum of five verses.

Sunday

10:00 Roleplaying your way across the Swedish landscape. Aula. Andreas Davour (M), Johan Egerkrans, Gabrielle de Bourg, Gunilla Jonsson, Michael Petersen.

From the dark forests of the nineteenth-century Mythic North, to re-imagined 1980's suburbia or the secrets of the Swedish film industry's golden age – the range of RPGs set in Sweden keeps growing.

But what is the core inspiration for the writers? Is there something innately strange about Sweden which translates so well from idea to finished game?

10:00 Oh frag! A Babylon 5 reboot! Sal IX. Patrik Centerwall, Eva Holmquist, Oskar Källner, Jan Lindgren (M).

Many of us loved Babylon 5, a darker, filthier version of the bright and shiny Star Trek and mythological Star Wars. Here we discuss the upcoming reboot and what it could mean for the Babylon 5 universe (and the show's loving fans).

10:00 Genes and Reproduction in Contemporary Science Fiction. Sal IV. Jani Ylönen.

In this presentation literary scholar Jani Ylönen discusses how contemporary science fiction, published since the dawn of the new millennium, has taken part in the discussion on gene technology and reproduction. The lecture examines the many ways in which sf has explored the possible effects genetic editing may have on human existence on Earth and perhaps human existence in its entirety.

10:00 Guided tour of the Viking mounds of Old Uppsala. Outside. 120 mins. Jonathan Olsson (guide).

Dig deep into Sweden's prehistory on this guided tour of one of Uppsala's main attractions. Listen to the story of the Old Uppsala mounds, the bloody sacrifices once held here and see the mighty earthworks which once supported one of Sweden's biggest longhouses, over 60m long. Hear about a ritual palisade of logs holding horse skulls leading into the area, and the rich burials excavated at the mound, as well as stories of fabled kings mentioned in the Eddas, and about the first cathedral in Sweden.

Experience a historical 1h tour at the 3 mighty, pre-viking Vendel Era (550-800AD), man-made grave mounds of Old Uppsala, rising up 55-77m in diameter and over 5m high. Welcome to Old Uppsala!

Meet up in front of the Odinsborg restaurant and café a few minutes before the tour starts.

11:00 Tea. Earl Grey. Hot. Sal IX. Marija Fischer Odén, Carolina Gomez Lagerlöf (M), Pernilla Lindgren, Sara Norja, Katarina Norrgård.

Tea is an important feature in science fiction and fantasy. What role does tea play in a story? Which stories are the big tea drinking stories?

11:00 The history of fantasy art, or: why are there no great fantasy artists? Sal IV. Nina Tadsen.

Fantastical creatures have featured in art for thousands of years. Yet on a journey through fantasy art history, we reach a widening gap between fine art and fantasy art. Where have we gone wrong, and how can we bridge the gap? A lecture by artist and art student Nina Tadsen.

11:00 Where I belong – The role of found family in science fiction. Aula. Anna Jakobsson Lund (moderator), Camilla Linde, Ian McDonald, Karl-Johan Norén, Martha Wells.

No matter who you are, you can find your loved ones on a spaceship. Stories about crews, gangs, smugglers, and pioneers lend themselves well to the theme of found family, important for many readers, but especially those who go beyond the norm when it comes to relationships. In science fiction we find inspiration and acknowledgement.

11:00 Erasmuscon Eurocon 2024. Sal XI. Paul van Oven.

One Eurocon is not enough! You have to go to Eurocon next year! The bid-winners for the 2024 convention, Erasmuscon in Rotterdam, roll out their upcoming plans and give us some insight into next year's event.

12:00 Closing ceremony. Aula.

We bid farewell to Konflikt, present the ESFS and Alvar awards, and enjoy choral singing by Dissonantia.

13:00 Anatomy of Future Bodies. Aula. Francesco Verso, Torill Kornfeldt, Heidi Lyshol (M), Ian McDonald, Elena Pavlova.

The panel explores different ways to achieve a sort of "Human Enhancement" – physical, emotional, and intellectual – that could lead to a Posthuman condition. Here, they will discuss SF technologies like cyberpunk implants, 3D printed prosthetics, mind-uploading, bio-mimetic artificial bodies and nanotech, and the often-ambiguous relationship humans have with technology as a tool to overcome our current biological limits.

13:00 Dressed-Up Picnic at University Park. Outside. 120 mins. Kristin Thorrud.

Do you enjoy dressing up - be it in steampunk fashion, historically-accurate Edwardian walking suits, or in your latest cosplay creation? No matter if you are a hardcore crafter, a former Upsala Ångpunk member, or a fledgling cosplay enthusiast, take the opportunity to meet with other aficionados over a nice cuppa!

Weather permitting, we meet up in the park outside the University Hall to indulge in a picnic – in full regalia! (BYOPB = Bring Your Own Picnic Basket).

13:00 En explosiv export: Svenska dataspel och vi som skriver dem. Sal IX. Tobias Bodlund, Markus Sköld, Thomas Årnfelt (M).

Dataspelsindustrin stod häromåret för nästan 5 % av hela Sveriges exportintäkter. Suget efter fantasyvärldar och historiska strategispel skapade av svenskar är stort internationellt.

Panelen diskuterar vad man tror ligger bakom denna explosion av svenska spel. Hur är det att skriva och skapa en värld för just dataspel, och var kommer inspirationen ifrån?

Finns det vissa berättelser och troper som går igen här, precis som i fantasylitteraturen, eller öppnar formatet för en annan typ av berättande med helt andra förväntningar hos mottagaren?

13:00 Skrivandets svartkonster. Sal XI. Workshop. 90 min. Amanda Magnevill, Lisa Ylitalo (M).

En bok handlar inte om handlingen, den handlar om hur handlingen påverkar och förändrar karaktärerna. Under föreläsningen berör vi de yttre, inre och filosofiska konflikter som sammanvävs för att skapa en fängslande och spännande berättelse. Du får med dig verktyg för att strukturera och hantera konflikten och intrigen. Ta med skrivblock; skrivövningar kommer att ske.

13:00 Kaffeeklatsch: Sarah Underwood. Café Alma.

A small group joins author Sarah Underwood for an informal talk over coffee at Café Alma. (The coffee is not mandatory, but tea and coffee is complimentary and will be made available by a gopher.) Maximum 10 attendees, sign up at the registration desk.

14:00 The future of pleasures. Sal IX. Torill Kornfeldt.

When thinking about the future – whether in real life or science fiction – we have a tendency to forget about the pleasures of life and the importance of things like wine, spices, chocolate and coffee (or their literary equivalents).

But our love of pleasure has shaped history and will shape things to come. This is a lecture both about how pleasures are treated in Science Fiction and about the possible real-life futures facing our daily indulgences.

14:00 Fantastik på scen. Sal IV. Gabi Gomez, Johan Jönsson (M), Gustav Tegby. Fantastik som teater, musikal och opera! Dracula på Kungliga operan och Bortbytingen på Dramaten, i den här panelen diskuterar vi science fiction, fantasy och fantastik på scen. Vad görs, vad har gjorts och vad hoppas vi på att se i framtiden?

15:00 Food, eating, and cookbooks from fictional worlds. Sal IX. Eva Norman, Elena Pavlova, Sabrina Porterfield, Malin Sandström, Shana Worthen (M).

Food and drink are some of the most important things in life! Let's savour the subject as the panel explores food and eating in SF and Fantasy. We will be taken through cookbooks, dinners, and cocktails. There will be recipes from a galaxy far away, magical wafers, the Pangalactic Gargle Blaster, and so much more.

15:00 Loving and hating Star Wars. Sal IV. Tobias Bodlund (M), Jenny Bristle, Gunilla Jonsson, Klaus Æ. Mogensen, Michael Petersen.

Star Wars has the original films, the follow-ups, the prequels and the alternatives! There are so many tracks within this loved and hated universe! The panel maps, charts, and discusses favourites. But it also speculates: where to next?
